France May Push U.S., Britian For A-Secerts

PARIS (AP) — France, triumphant over an atomic test explosion, may now push its case for a share of the nuclear know-how of the United States and Great Britain.

Two members of the French Atomic Energy Commission will visit Washington later this week to meet officials of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Pierre Falquet of the French commission's external affairs division and Philippe Gordien of the military applications division, insisted in New York their talks would be merely exploratory.

Reaction in Washington to the French test Saturday was that one explosion does not entitle a nation to full membership in atomic councils. But France's President Charles de Gaulle is prepared to argue that much nuclear information is already known to the Soviet Union and should not be kept secret from a friend.

De Gaulle Sees Films

De Gaulle and other Frenchmen got their first look Sunday at photographs of the explosion of the tower device, shot off Saturday morning in the Sahara. An army documentary film showing preparations for the blast and the flowering of the awesome mushroom cloud were flown to Paris. De Gaulle got a special showing at his Elysee Palace.

The state-run television network projected the film on each of its news programs. Still photographs of the blinding explosion were splashed in newspapers.

Most Frenchmen took the attitude there is no reason why France should not have her own atomic weapons. Unconcealed pride that France made the test device without assistance was mingled with resentment she had been denied help from her allies.

Threats At Embassy

Police guarded the French Embassy in Stockholm after anonymous threats that "on Sunday we will blow up the embassy." The embassy has received hundreds of letters protesting the test.

In Syria, U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser denounced the explosion. He said France "has no right to employ an Arab nation (Algeria) as the site for the test."

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in New Delhi, "All I can say is that we regret this direction has been taken instead of a direction reducing such explosions."

Khrushchev is to arrive March 15 on a state visit in Paris. He obviously is anxious to say nothing to arouse De Gaulle's anger.

Benson Denies Farm Plan Geared To Election Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson Sunday rejected a suggestion that the Eisenhower administration's less rigid approach to farm legislation is geared to the election year.

Benson said President Eisenhower's farm message to Congress last week "is a document based on sound economic principles, representing our best judgment and recommendations."

It is not, he asserted, "a political document for an election year."

Eisenhower's message dealt principally with the critical wheat surplus problem that he said is costing the government 1½ million dollars a day in storage costs.

Eisenhower offered, as he has in the past, a plan for removing production controls from the wheat farmer. At the same time he challenged Congress to come up with a better plan.

Relaxing his insistence on the administration's program, Eisenhower said, "I will approve any constructive solution."

White Believes American Airborne Alert May Prod Soviets Into Rash Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, says the establishment of a round-the-clock U. S. airborne alert now might prod the Soviet leaders into rash decisions.

It is wiser, White said, to stick with the announced plan for building up an "on-the-shelf" capability so such an alert can be put into operation if needed.

The Air Force chief made his views known in heavily censored testimony released Sunday by the Senate Space and Preparedness subcommittees, which heard White behind closed doors.

Power Heard

Among others heard by the subcommittee was Gen. Thomas D. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command, who has been plugging for more funds so his bombers will be able to keep a day-night alert within about two years.

White agreed with this view generally, which was expressed also at the hearing by Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex., chairman of both subcommittees, and Stuart Symington (D-Mo). They said this country should have a capability for the SAC airborne alert in the next few years when the Soviet Union is expected to have hundreds of ocean-spanning missiles capable of hitting U. S. targets.

Answers Deleted

Hundreds of answers to questions about missiles and strategic plans were deleted in the subcommittee report, including White's initial reference to the airborne alert being provocative.

White testified he had recommended that additional hundreds of millions of dollars be provided for the SAC standby alert to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, on which he serves.

He said there were three different viewpoints among the four military chiefs and as a result Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. and President Eisenhower finally made the decision to ask 90 million dollars to prepare for an alert capability.

White said he opposed an immediate start on constant flying by the bombers with nuclear weapons aboard because it was not needed now and would be very expensive in both dollars and manpower.

Part of this reply was deleted but Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) later told White: "I think it was quite a worthwhile answer when you said you thought that if you put into operation this alert, it might act as a provocation."

Might Not Be Wise

Later, Wiley asked: "The provocation you mentioned might bring about the firing of the — Soviet-missile. Is that what you meant?"

White, in a lengthy reply, said that if critical diplomatic negotiations were under way, it might not be wise to start an airborne alert on a certain date and announce that time.

The general pointed out that Soviet Premier Kikita Khrushchev "certainly must recognize that his potential enemies must have the right to defend themselves to the extent they need them."

He said an announced airborne alert would be different, explaining: "There is a difference between actually moving these weapons in his direction, because once you do move in his direction, he can consider them a provocative action, whether you intend them or not."

Estimates on the first-year cost of an airborne alert varied from 600 million dollars to more than 700 million the first year and one billion annually thereafter.

Sen. Morse In Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) said Sunday he will enter the Maryland presidential primary election May 17 against Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

Morse, who previously declared himself in the Oregon and District of Columbia contests, said, "I think there should be a contest in Maryland."

"I don't think Sen. Kennedy should have it on a plater," he added.

Morse announced his decision on the ABC-TV program, "College News Conference."

The Oregon senator said he would file in Maryland next week.

Kennedy filed in Maryland earlier this month. The state's 24 convention votes are at stake.

Red Police Block Newsmen

BHILAI, India (AP) — Soviet security guards scuffled with Indian and Western newsmen Sunday as Premier Nikita Khrushchev toured this Soviet-built steel town.

No one was hurt and Khrushchev appeared oblivious of the incident. The trouble began when his security men stopped newsmen from following him through a steel plant.

Burma Shows No Anxiety For Nikita

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Burma appears unexcited by the prospect of Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev's visit, only two days off.

His two-day stopover in Rangoon, sandwiched between visits to India and Indonesia, is being greeted with a "we couldn't care less" attitude.

The Burmese government, however, is making all the preparations required by protocol. Generaly friendly relations exist with the Soviet Union under cover of Burma's neutrality policy.

Blasts Capitalists

BHILAI, India (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khruschev said Sunday Western nations give aid to India and other underdeveloped nations only to hold them "in capitalist slavery."

"They openly state that India must be given economic aid, otherwise, it will pass from the free world into the Socialist camp," he told an audience at a banquet in this central Indian steel city built with Soviet aid.

"Let them give you capital if they want. Let them return in some small measure the wealth they plundered from your country."

He said Communist countries are overtaking capitalist countries "and they are afraid and are fighting back" in such nations as India and Indonesia.

Hearings To Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate subcommitte on production and stabilization will open hearings Feb. 24 on a bill introduced by Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D., Pa.) designed to combat inflation.

Clark said his bill would permit the President to order public hearings on any price or wage increases which might upset the stability of the nation's economy.

Winds Whip Snowfall In County

WIND complicated the weekend's snowfall in Monroe County, sending the white material drifting over the roads and tying up traffic in some instances. Between two and three inches of snow fell in the Stroudsburgs.

Lehighton State Police reported the West End was hit by drifts mainly on secondary roads, a condition prevelant in most of the area.

Milford reported about three to four inches of snow plus winds.

Roads Open

Pocono Lake reported primary roads were still open though snow was drifting.

Conditions at Mount Pocono were about the same as those in other areas. Snowplows and cinder trucks were on duty on state and borough roads.

The weather station at the A-B-E Airport, Allentown, reported some few flurries could be expected today, but nothing of the same proportions as during the weekend.

Snow accumulation ranged from three inches in parts of Eastern Pennsylvania to at least 20 inches in the Bradford area in the west. The average accumulation was about from eight to 15 inches.

Roads Dangerous

Winds of 23 miles per hour with gusts up to 30 miles an hour added to the crispness of the day and compounded the difficulties brought on by the snowstorm, one of the worst in the state's history.

Transportation was temporarily stymied throughout the state. Roads were described as dangerous. In Pittsburgh, both the Greater Pittsburgh Airport and the Allegheny County Airport were shut down.

At least three deaths have been attributed to skidding accidents. Four other persons suffered fatal heart attacks while shoveling snow in Pittsburgh.

Killed in the skidding accidents were O. Earle Raum, 40, of Narberth; Stanley Tonik, 32, of Philadelphia, and Emma Kesler, 63, Danville. Raum was killed in a car-truck collision. Tonik was hit by a skidding car. Miss Kessler was a passenger in a car that struck a tree.

Heart Attacks

Those dying of heart attacks were Herman Raddinger, 69, of Imperial; Walter L. Skurcenski, 74, of Braddock; Louis L. Hill, 63, of Mount Lebanon and Joseph Robbins, 66, of Glassport.

In the southwestern Pennsylvania area around Greensburg, Waynesburg and Washington the snowfall ranged from 10 to 15 inches. Erie, Meadville and Butler had from six to 12 inches. State Police reported that snow in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton had accumulated from about four to eight inches.

A group of boy scouts were evacuated safely from Camps Wesco and Twin Echos in Westmoreland County by State Highways Dept. crews.

Meanwhile, the Automobile Assn. of America reported all roads in the state were ice and snow covered. A 35-mile-an-hour speed limit were posted on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Meanwhile, the storm made thousands of youngsters happy. A host of schools canceled Monday classes because of the snow.

Girl Gets Part Without Trial

LONDON (AP) — A new Suzie Wong was named Sunday — a Hong Kong girl with freckles on her nose who has never appeared in a film or play.

The movie makers announced that Nancy Kwan, the 20-year-old new comer, was selected from more than 30 rivals for the movie part in the Broadway play about a prostitute overtaken by love.

She replaces France Nuyan who withdrew from the multimillion-dollar motion picture 10 days ago. The studio announced then that her voice cracked up. The change of stars was reported to have cost the studio some $800,000.

Argentine Navy Stepping Up Depth-Bombing Of Two Subs

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — An Argentina sea and air task force stepped up its attacks Sunday on two mystery submarines believed lurking in Golfo Nuevo, indicating the climactic assault had begun.

Reports from the scene 650 miles southwest of Buenos Aires said five warships opened up Saturday night with powerful new depth bombs flown from the United States. Planes joined in the attacks as daylight broke.

Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, the navy secretary, predicted a climax "in a matter of hours" in the grim 16-day-old game of hide and seek in Golfo Nuevo where one of the submarines has been reported trapped. He refused to go into detail.

Reporters at the scene were barred from getting close enough for any precise impression but they said the intensity and frequency of the attacks by ships and planes in the last few hours strongly indicated "Operation Sinking"—as the Navy dubs the big assault—was under way.

U. S. Sends Aid

They said five warships began their depth-charge assault near Punta Piramide, along the northern shores of the gulf. Reporters and photographers rushed to that area hoping to get a better view.

Two big U. S. Globemaster transport planes flew in a cargo of modern depth charges capable of reaching the deepest parts of the 20x40-mile gulf Saturday along with sonar detection gear and flares. Argentine planes flew the cargo on to Puerto Madryn on the gulf.

An Argentine naval source predicted the U. S. equipment would play a decisive role in the assault.

The sources said Argentine warships, some of which date back to World War I, and planes have been handicapped by outdated equipment in the hunt for the modern submarines.

The government and navy have refused to speculate on the nationality of the submarines, but some military and civilian officials believe they are Soviet. Britain and the United States say they have no knowledge of any of their submarines being in the area.

Argentine Waters

The first submarine was detected by three warships on training maneuvers Jan. 30 in the gulf, considered by Argentina to be its territorial waters.

Clement said the submarine was believed to have suffered damage to its propellers in one of the frequent depth - charge attacks.

The navy acknowledged Saturday the second submarine slipped in past the naval blockade at the mouth of the gulf to try with its speed and maneuvering to lure pursuit away so the crippled submarine could escape.

In another development unconfirmed reports said the body of a frogman had been washed ashore at the village of Cala Chica, near the mouth of the gulf.

These accounts said the frogman, described as wearing underwater clothing and an oxygen tank strapped to his back, had been dead about four days.

His body showed injuries that might have been caused from depth charges. There were no identification marks on his clothing and his nationality could not be determined.

Mikoyan Slur Greeted By Boos In Oslo, Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Angry Norwegian students Sunday night booed and shouted down Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan after he asserted former Hungarian Freedom Fighters now in Norway "are criminals."

Mikoyan, on a two-day stopover en route home from Cuba, addressed the Norwegian Students Assn. Among his listeners were Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen Foreign Minister Halvard Lange and other Norwegian officials.

After the speech, Mikoyan was asked about the Soviet suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

He replied that the Soviet government had been asked to help crush "the archreactionary, criminal, American-instigated rebels" and added: "And those Hungarian students you have here are criminals with blood on their hands."

He said the United States had given 100 million dollars in aid and relief to the Hungarian rebels to keep the revolt going.

His statements were met with violent whistling, a sign of disapproval here, and boos and shouts from most of the packed room. A few leftist students present remained silent.

Norway was among the countries to which Hungarian students and other rebels fled after Soviet armed forces crushed the revolt in Hungary.

Mikoyan arrived from Havana about six hours behind schedule and immediately plunged into a busy schedule of talks with Norwegian officials and sightseeing tours.

He is scheduled to meet with Gerhardsen and Lange Monday and is expected to be received by King Olav V. He leaves Monday night or Tuesday morning for Moscow.

Snow From Plow Breaks Windows

SNOW from the plow of a state highway snowplow yesterday shattered five windows of the Shafer's School House Community Sunday School located about one mile west of Stroudsburg on Route 209, it was reported last night by Daniel Marvin, Sunday School Superintendent.

Marvin reported that five storm windows as well as two inside windows were broken and snow and broken glass were scattered across the main room of the building.

Marvin said, 'On one other occasion one window was broken by a state plow, as it passed the building." He added, The highway department was asked to tell their drivers to slow down as they passed the building, when plowing the road."

Estimated damage is approximately $200, Marvin said.

Shot Linked To Coors Abduction

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Mystery cloaking the disappearance, and possible kidnaping, of Adolph Coors III deepened Sunday after a rancher's wife disclosed she heard a gunshot about the time the wealthy industrialist vanished five days ago.

Rosemary Stitt, 38, said the sound of a shot and loud voices came from the area of the wooden bridge where the 44-year-old Coors' station wagon was found—its engine still runig and radio playing—last Tuesday.

Mrs. Stitt, her husband, William, and their five children live a quarter of a mile from the backwoods bridge and a little less than two miles from the Coors foothills home near Morrison.

Mrs. Stitt also said her husband had seen a blue-gray sedan parked by the bridge on several occasions prior to the time Coors disappeared while driving from his mansion toward the family brewery and procelain plant here, a distance of 10 miles.

The FBI at nearby Denver would make no comment on the reports.

Quads Note Birthday

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — The Zavada quadruplets of Latrobe who won't be 12 until Monday celebrated their birthday Saturday with a big party.

More than 25 friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Andrew Zavada to help her four famous children mark their 12th anniversary. All four blew out 12 candles on the one big cake that sat on the table.

When anyone asked the children — John, Bernadette, Anna Mary and Barbara — what it's like to be quade, they come back with another question: "What is it like not to be quads?"

Death Toll For 2 Days Reaches 25

A POWERFUL snowstorm charged out of the Southland and battered the Northeast Sunday with towering snows, gale-force winds, sleet and freezing rain.

Drifts soared to 10 fet in upstate New York where biting winds roared in from Lake Erie. Rochester, N. Y. staggered under 15 inches of snow, Syracuse and Oswego 14 and Olean 13.

A paralyzing fall of more than a foot gripped areas stretching from eastern Ohio, across Pennsylvania and into New England.

20 Inches at Bradford

An unofficial 20 inches was measured in Bradford in western Pennsylvania.

Punching winds sent abnormally high tides pounding against the New England coast and swirling waters blocked dozens of roads on the Connecticut shoreline.

Autos and trucks were stranded. Airplane flights were canceled. Hundreds of schools from Ohio to North Carolina were ordered closed Monday.

Driving conditions were hazardous from Ohio east and then south into Dixie, still struggling to free itself from the 5 to 15 inches of snow which spread from Mississippi to the Carolinas Saturday.

Freezing Rain

Sleet and freezing rain turned highways to glass in costal areas of New England.

The death toll in the two-day onslaught climbed to 25. Most were victims of traffic accidents or heart attacks while shoveling knee-high snows. Virginia had 7 deaths, Tennessee, New York and Ohio 3, North Carolina, Pennsylvania 4, Kentucky 2, Louisiana, Mississippi and Massachusetts had 1.

New woes also hit Texas, which spawned the Northeast storm late last week. A fresh blizzard struck the Panhandle with winds up to 40 miles an hour. Four states got heavy snow warnings.

Although the sun shone brightly in most of the South many roads still were clogged. Temperatures droped to freezing as far south as northern Florida and melted snow put a glaze of ice on the snow base.

Roads Closed

All roads leading into Chattanooga near the Tennessee-Georgia line were reported closed. And for a 200-mile radius around Nashville, only one highway was passable — U. S. 70 from Nashville to Memphis.

Troopers stopped all trucks at state lines around the east Tennessee mountain section. There were five foot drifts clogging roads in east and central Kentucky.

Western Pennsylvania was buried. There was 12 to 15 inches in Greensburg, Waynesburg and Washington

Transportation was brought to a virtual standstill in Pittsburgh and hundreds of motorists were stranded.

Four inches of snow piled up in Washington, D.C. before the sun came out.

Schools Closed

Schools will be closed in 12 of West Virginia's 55 counties, in four counties adjoining the nation's capital and in parts of North Carolina and Ohio.

In upstate New York plane flights were canceled. Trains and buses ran late throughout the Northeast and South.

As the storm veered further northeast snow changed to sleet. Freezing rain played hob with transportation in Boston.

Winds of 50 miles an hour were clocked in New York City.

The powerful gusts raised tides 2 to 3 feet above normal on the New England coast. Gale warnings remained in effect from Cape Hatteras, N. C. to Eastport, Maine.

In the Southwest, similar storms were brewing, with their center in northeast New Mexico. Snow lashed a wide area stretching from western portions of the central plains into the Texas Panhandle.

Mrs. FDR Delayed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived in Pittsburgh Sunday night hours late for a speaking engagement after her bus was delayed in a traffic jam on a snow packed highway west of Pittsburgh.

Paar Packs For South American Vacation, Hopes He Won't Have To Return To Show

BRONXVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Both sides rested Sunday in the Jack Paar-NBC war, but the comedian, packing for a South American vacation, has simmered down to the point where he says, "I hope that I don't have to go back to the 'Tonight' show."

Paar spent the day inside his suburban home here, leafing through a deluge of telegrams and mail that has poured in, and trying to arrange plane transportation for himself and his wife, Miriam.

Paar's network bossees — Robert W. Sarnoff and Robert E. Kintner, National Broadcasting Co. board chairman and president respectively — were in Florida attending a meeting of NBC affiliated TV stations.

Kintner Apologizes

Saturday, Paar received a letter from Kintner. In it the executive apologized for the network's action in cutting out almost five minutes from the tape of Paar's Wednesday night show without informing the comedian, but reminded him that it was the network's prerogative and that Paar was still under contract to it.

The network said Paar had told a joke that was not in good taste.

Tuesday night, Paar walked out of his show in protest against the censorship, announcing he was through.

Three days and two nights of sound sleep later, Paar's attitude had softened considerably and his sense of humor was beginning to re-emerge.

"When I woke up this morning," he said, "I felt as low as I ever have in my life. Right now, I'm beginning to live dangerously again. I'm cleaning some neckties with carbon tetrachloride and smoking a cigarette at the same time."

NEW TRAINING CENTER—Above is an artist's conception of the proposed Army Reserve trainign center to be built at Tobyhanna.

New Center To Be Built At Depot

THE PROPOSED $165,000 U. S. Army Reserve Center to be built at Tobyhanna will be designated as the 305th Signal, USAR Company.

The company is comprised mainly of reservists who are presently stationed at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot. The unit holds its weekly training program at the depot.

The proposed building will contain 4,300 square feet and will include: two offices, two classrooms, two unit storerooms, two administrative rooms, one day room, one locker room, one kitchen and one mechanical equipment room. In addition the program will include a one-bay maintenance shop.

When completed the center will provide offices and training facilities for approximately 100 men.

Federation Studies Road Safety Plan

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Motor Federation (AAA) is undertaking a detailed study in an attempt to clarify the aims of Gov. David Lawrence's broad, new highway safety program.

In a statement Saturday, C. E. Pugh, PMF secretary-manager said:

"Our studies thus far reveal that a greater part of the program is made up of only broad ideals, goals and desires which have not been set forth in any specific terms. Standards, methods, implimentation and the manner of financing are just a few of the details still to be worked out before much of this package even can get under way."

Pugh said the AAA is offering its services to the state in setting up the needed machinery and standards necessary to get "a sound highway safety program" under way.

The program's key features are periodic physical examinations of all drivers and a revised system of penalties for traffic violations.

(Pugh made his statement at the close of the secretary-managers' conference. Among those attending were Mrs. Cynthia Watt, retiring secretary-manager of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club, and Clement Heist, new secretary-manager).

Koreans Return

TOKYO (AP) — The eighth group of Koerans, migrating to North Korea aboard two repatriation ships, arrived in Chongjin Sunday, Pyongyang radio reported. The latest group of 1,016 brought the total number of Koreans going to North Korea under the Japanese-North Korean repatriation agreement to 7,952.

Scene Where Airmen Died Likened To Moon Surface

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The bleak Libyan desert sands that hid five dead members of a U.S. bomber crew for almost 17 years look "like a scene on the moon's surface," an American officer said Sunday.

The bodies, found Friday by an oil exploration party deep in the shifting dunes of North Africa, were from the bomber Lady Be Good that ran out of fuel and crashed April 4, 1943.

(Earlier reports from Washington said the five skeletons were discovered Thursday, at the edge of the Calenshio sand sea desert, 440 miles southeast of Benghazi.)

The bodies of four other members of the crew are presumed still lying nearby in the sun-baked desert.

Walked 50 Miles

The Liberator bomber was returning from a World War II raid over Naples, Italy, when it crashed. Its almost intact frame was found 10 months ago. The five young fliers had walked about 50 parched miles from the wreck before they died. It was the crew's first combat mission.

Col. Stebbins W. Griffit of Wheelus Air Base near Tripoli, described the scene Sunday after flying there with a U.S. Air Force rescue team.

Shoes, fur-lined flying jackets, empty water canteens, flashlights, and fragments of parachute silk were scattered on the sand. Despite explosure to the stinging desert heat the equipment was still intact, Griffith said.

Five-Year-Old Girl Dies In Philadelphia Hospital

LOUANN BOGART, five, of 67 King St., East Stroudsburg died Sunday at 1:15 p.m. in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia following a long illness.

She was the daughter of Chester and Evelyn Berger Bogart of East Stroudsburg.

She was a member of the Sunday School of the Salvation Army of East Stroudsburg.

Survivors

Miss Bogart is survived, in addition to her parents, by four brothers, Chester Bogart Jr., Morgan S. Bogart, Ronald C. Bogart and Donald R. Bogart, all at home. Maternal grandfather is Adam Bogart of Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home with Captain Charles Drummond, Salvation Army, officiating.

Interment will be in the Sand Hill Cemetery, Bushkill, Pa.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Tuesday after 7 p.m.

Sportsmen's Clubs Meet On Thursday

SPORTSMEN'S associations and clubs of Monroe County will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Onawa Lodge, Mountainhome.

Dr. F. W. Shafer, president of Oak Spring Sportsmen Assn., said last night, "We have 65 reservations for the meeting and there are still more clubs I hope to hear from."

The purpose for the meeting is to get all the clubs in the area to aid in the development of a better deer herd in Pennsylvania and more in particular this area.

Glenn L. Bowers, executive deputy director Pennsylvania Game Commission, will be the main speaker.

For more information or reservations call HA 1-6370.

Cars Collide On Icy Road

LEHIGHTON State Police yesterday reported an accident on Rural Route 1461, midway between Forest Inn on Route 209 and Palmerton.

The two-car accident, police said, occurred at 1:20 p.m. Sunday, and involved two cars; the first owned and driven by Jose Barbosa, 56, of Palmerton RD 1, and the second driven by Howard N. Fatzinger, 58, of Ogdensburg, N.J.

Police said Barbosa was heading north and Fatzinger south when icy road conditions caused them to swerve, hitting each other on the left sides of their autos.

No estimate of the total damage was reported, and the investigation will be continued, it was reported.

Father Dies During Mass

MANUET, N. Y. (AP)—Rev. Charles Rader had just started to say mass at St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church Sunday morning when an elderly man in the front row slumped over.

Father Radar, following his duty as a priest, continued saying mass, although he paused a moment to ask the congregation to pray for the man's recovery. But it was too late. When a doctor stepped forward to help, he found the man dead, apparently of a stroke.

He was Charles J. Rader, 76, father of the priest.

First Phase Of Thruway Open Today

THE completed section of the Stroudsburg Thruway from Delaware Water Gap to the Prospect St. exit in East Stroudsburg, will be officially opened today.

Travel on the section has been open for the past several weeks but not officially.

No special ceremony is planned in connection with the opening, it was revealed last night during a check with officials in the State Highways Department and in the three boroughs.

One spokesman said current weather conditions would preclude any celebration in which the public could participate, but that some program would undoubtedly be held at a later date.

The New Jersey section of Route 611, closed last Fall to remove dangerous rocks and land slides will continue to be closed for the present. Traffic will be routed via the "old" 611, through the Delaware Water Gap and Portland.

C. M. Schaller Announces For Chairman

CLYDE M. SCHALLER, 138 Sopher St., East Stroudsburg, has announced his candidacy for the post of county chairman for the Monroe County Democratic Party.

Schaller, born and raised in East Stroudsburg, is employed at East Stroudsburg State College.

He is presently serving his second six-year term as a director of the East Stroudsburg Borough School Board, and served as Fourth Ward Democratic committeeman for 16 years.

Rotary Club Sees Film

BARRETT — The weekly meeting of the Pocono Mountains Rotary Club was held at the Pocono Top Hat. Karl Weiler presided in the absence of president Lloyd Lebar who is ill.

Two members, Jay Shumaker and Dr. Thomas B. Mullen are in the hospital for observation and several other members are in Florida.

Program chairman was Lawrence Hay who presented a film entitled "Washington at Work." Marty Baumgartner led the group in singing. Rev. Harold MacMurray, former pastor of the Mountainhome Methodist Church and past president of the Rotary, was a guest.

The club is presently engaged in an attendance contest with the Mount Pocono and Newfoundland Rotary Clubs.

Two Men Trapped In Crashed Auto

SCOTRUN — Two Shamokin men were trapped in their auto for two hours Saturday, following an accident here at 11:10 p.m.

Operator of the car, Joe Silkowski, told police his vehicle skidded into the highway divider, rolled over several times and wound up against a guard post.

The car was headed north when the accident happened.

The two men, Silkowski and his passenger, Clem Chesney, were pinned in the wreckage for two hours before help arrived.

Chesney is in guarded condition and Silkowski in fair condition at Monroe County General Hospital where they were removed for treatment.

Both men are employed as superintendents at Buck Hill Falls.

Police will continue their investigation of the accident, they reported.

Achterman Listed On State Pay

HARRISBURG — Among the employes listed as working for members of the State Legislature is Leo A. Achterman, Stroudsburg attorney, who is also solicitor for the Monroe County Commissioners.

Achterman, officially listed as an assistant secretary to Rep. Stephen McCann, House majority leader, is employed at a salary listed at $4,500 per year.

Achterman told The Daily Record yesterday that he has spent much time advising McCann on matters legislative regarding the situation of a politically split House of Representatives.

Achterman had much the same situation during the administration of then Gov. Arthur H. James, when Achterman also served as House majority leader.

Achterman said, however, that the present situation differs in the respect that McCann has a Democratic governor, while he (Achterman) had a Republican governor.

Nurse Moves To Palace

LONDON (AP) — Helen Rowe, the maternity nurse who will attend Queen Elizabeth II at the birth of her third child, moved into Buckingham Palace Sunday.

Her arrival indicated the long wait for the royal birth is nearing an end.

The royal baby is expected sometime this week — possibly in the next couple of days.

MacArthur Same

NEW YORK (AP)—The condition of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was reported unchanged Sunday at Lenox Hill Hospital where he has been undergoing treatment for a urological condition. Hospital aides reported earlier that the 80-year-old general was making normal improvement.

Revised System Needed

The next decade could bring a rise of about 60 per cent in the gross national product, a jump in disposable income per family from $6,000 to over $8,000 a year, twice the present expenditures for research and development, and many other dramatic material advances. But it all is dependent on the nation overcoming "an appalling air of complacency."

That statement was made recently by Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange. We are, he went on, "up against stupendous stumbling blocks" to future progress. He listed these as "inflation, an unrealistic tax structure that discourages sufficient growth, and an apparent unwillingness to eliminate featherbedding and high cost production, to name a few."

For instance, if the high future goals are to be reached, it will require about 55 billion dollars in 1970 to just tool up our productive plant. This means that it will take $30,000 of invested capital instead of approximately $17,000 today to furnish the average production worker with the tools of his trade.

Yet, our tax system — with its extremely high rates, along with the tax on capital gains and a double tax on dividends—is a heavy barrier to investment. In too many instances, it penalizes risk takers instead of stimulating them. And risk is essential to progress.

The way tax revenue is raised is as important as how much is raised. What we need is a revised tax system capable of producing needed government revenue with minimum obstruction and discouragement to investment.

The Uncertain Trumpet

Closed School – Grim View

Recently 33 southern educators—all college officials — spoke some frank words about the results of closing down any public school system to fight integration.

Their analysis is particularly effective because it steers clear of arguing the integration issue itself, and simply sets down a picture of the economic and social effects that would probably descend on a no-school community.

Ultimately, the educators said, the outcome would be a "collapse of our democratic society . . . The labor market would be flooded with unskilled and untrained young people."

These multitudes of unoccupied youths could not possibly be kept busy with sufficient jobs and/or recreational facilities, the educators added. The result: "Many will drift into crime and delinquency."

Even discounting a possible bias of educators toward education, this is a realistic description of what might indeed happen.

And yet the possibility of closed schools looms—in Georgia, for instance. In relation to average citizen income, Georgia has a commendable record of supporting the public schools.

But many public officials, including the Governor, are committed to shutting the schools rather than allow even token integration. It is believed that some of these officials hope the courts will get them off the hook. But the judicial process may move too slowly to avert a no-school crisis.

Parents who want to protect their children presumably could help get their elected leaders out of this awkward position by putting pressure on them now not to make school closure their final line of defense against integration. The 33 educators have given these parents a convincing ground on which to argue—not just for their own children but for the economic and social health of the whole community.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

It Was Some Other Guy

Way back in 1950 or 1951, I encountered H. L. Hunt who is reputed to be one of the richest men in the world but have never counted their money. Hunt wanted to save mankind from Communism which was a laudable purpose.

When last I saw him, it was at Chicago, in 1952, where he tried to nominate General Douglas MacArthur for President. It was at the Republican Convention that Hunt discovered that his money could not buy anything or anyone.

Now along comes E. Mullins, who writes on the stationery of the Intitute for Biopolitics, and who recounts the following:

"While I was visiting with Mr. Hunt of Dallas this winter, he asked me one day if I knew what role you had played in the Russian Revolution. I replied that I was quite a student of the period, and, as a matter of fact, I was writing a book about it, but that I had not known of any particular role that you had played.

"He then said that when you had been down to see him, you had given him the impression that you, Lenin and Totsky were the three men who planned the October seizure of power.

"I was rather surprised to hear this, as your name does not figure in any book I have ever consulted on this period, and I showed Mr. Hunt, in his copy of 'Stalin,' by Trotsky, that your name did not appear in it although Trotsky discusses the October Revolution at some length.

"I told him that the first time your name appears in my files is a clipping from the Zionist Bulletin, recounting the fact that you had addressed a Zionist group in Shanghai."

I must be the fellow who made the moon! For less than Hunt says, they put fellows in the booby-hatch. "No, you're not Napoleon, I am!"

Any student of the first year of the Russian Revolution would know such names as Bukharin, Zinoviev, Kollontia, Chernov, Tseretelli, even Stalin. But they would not find the name of the 24 year old genius, Sokolsky, among them.

Forsooth! He was a mere gatherer of news on a small newspaper published in English in the city of Petrograd where he went to from the school of Journalism of Columbia University, in his native State of New York.

The "Russian Daily News" was owned by H. Custus Vezey, an American, but it was under the control of the British Military Mission and was definitely anti-Bolshevik throughout its career, until it was seized by them.

I, along with many others, was, without much ado, put on a train leaving Petrograd. On this train were also the American, Chinese and Japanese diplomatic delegations as well as some businessmen of these countries.

One of the advantages of having seen the Bolshevik Revolution close at hand, as a reporter who daily had to visit the various bureaus of the Smolny Institute, is that one recognizes the nature of revolution. It is never an accident.

It is never without cause. It never requires much organization in advance because it only happens when the core of a nation is rotted. Had the Bolsheviks not taken power in Soviet Russia, some other group would have. Other groups tried and failed to hold power.

The Court party under Grand Duke Nicholai Nicholaievitch tried; the conservative middle class under Prince Lvov tried; and patriotic nationalistic Social Revolutionists under Kerensky tried and failed; the Army under General Kornilov tried and failed.

Why did Lenin and Trotsky, representing the smallest and least important political group, succeed? The answer is so simple that it is too often overlooked.

They had carefully analyzed the inner yearning of the Russian peasants and workers and even large elements of the middle class who were weary of war, hunger, struggle over land and the wastefulness of the upper class.

As a reporter and editor, I witnessed the deeds of the day. In the Smolny Institute, in the Constituent Assembly, wherever I had to go for a sight of the events and to listen to interminable speeches, I went.

No, despite H. L. Hunt, I was not the third man in the Leningrad Trotsky team—nor was I Nopoleon or Julius Caesar or even Hitler. It must have been two or three other guys.

Try and Stop Me

Mox Lindquist in "My Manasota Pals" cites the case of a tough old lumberjack cutting a few capers on the fourteenth floor of a Minneapolis hotel. He lost his balance leaning out of a window, and fell all the way to the ground. Miraculously enough, he wasn't killed. In fact, he arose gingerly and rubbed his head.

A passerby gasped, "What happened?"

The lumberjack said, "Ay don't know. Ay yust got here myself!"

Social Security Guide

(Q) If I file for a benefit because of disability, is it less than it would be if I were age 65?

(A) No, the same method of figuring your benefit is used when you qualify for a disability payment as would be used if you were age 65.

(Q) What is the minimum payment a disabled person may receive?

(A) The minimum is $33.

(Q) If it can be proved I am totally disabled, how much will be paid to me when I qualify for benefits?

(A) The payments are based on your average monthly earnings in the years prior to the onset of your disability. As the result, payments could be anywhere from $33 to $119 a month at the present time.

(Q) A co-worker of mine said he heard that everyone should have his social security account checked. Why is this? I thought all the social security records were accurate.

(A) Your friend is correct. The Social Security Administration urges that every employee or self-employed person have his social security account checked on a regular basis, usually every three years. The old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is applicable to your social security account too. The modern methods of recording each employee and self-employed person's wage information do a remarkable job of maintaining correct accounts but sometimes inaccuracies will occur. This can happen due to many reasons but usually because a social security number is omitted from the employee's report or an incorrect digit of the person's social security number is accidentally typed. When an individual has his account checked, he can quickly determine from the information he receives back from the Social Security Administration whether all his earnings are being credited to his account.

Inside Washington

More Reliable Weather Forecasting

Washington — An eminent scientist, working in the quiet of a tower in the Smithsonian perfected a system under which he'll be able to forecast the weather for seven years ahead.

The brilliant savant believes he can predict the weather for Washington and 31 other American cities a month at a time until 1967. If the system should prove practical, it will represent the greatest breakthrough in the history of man's effort's to predict the weather.

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, a solar physicist, has been working on his system for 30 years. Now 87 years old, he is confident that he has at last found the key to reliable weather forecasting far into the future.

Briefly, Dr. Abbot believes that all weather on earth is controlled by the heat and activity on the surface of the sun. He came to this conclusion after making a three-decade study of the sun.

As a result of his studies and measurements, Dr. Abbot has concluded that weather goes through a cycle of 273 months, and then repeats itself. All one has to do is to determine what the weather was 22¾ years ago, and wait for it to repeat itself.

Actually, it's more complicated than that, of course. Dr. Abbot has also made studies of man-made interference, such as smoke, groupings of buildings, effects of burgeoning cities, etc.

Abbot not only intends to predict rainfall, but temperatures as well. He does not expect the orthodox weather forecasting scientists to accept his system without question. However, if his predictions are borne out, he says, "my report may create such interest that they will have to study it."

The Allen-Scott Report

Missiles Pack Wallop

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The result of those two Russian long-range ballistic missile tests in the Pacific are much more disconcerting than has been so far publicly revealed.

The Navy has privately apprised the House Armed Services Committee of the following jolting details:

The nose cones of both these ocean-spanning missiles were recovered by the Russians in an astonishingly short time; the first in 20 minutes, and the second in about 40 minutes.

This is the first public disclosure of the recovery of these large instrument-loaded capsules. The Navy has made no announcement about it, and neither has Moscow, although loudly boasting about the accuracy of the powerful ICBMs.

Both nose cones weighed "at least several hundred pounds." One Intelligence report estimates the weight at "more than 1,000 pounds." Throughout their ocean-spanning flight and until recovered, the two capsules sent out a steady relay of radio signals—in code.

The Soviet missiles, at speeds upwards of 14,000 mph, traversed an estimated 7,760 miles from their launching base at Kapustin Yar, near Stalingrad, to the Pacific target area, some 1,000 miles east of the Marshall Islands.

On the basis of this distance and the size of the recovered nose cones, Navy missile experts estimate the Russian ICBMs had a thrust of 600,000 to 800,000 lbs. That is approximately double the 350,000 lb. thrust of the Atlas, the only operational ICBM the U. S. now has. Maximum distance so far covered by an Atlas is around 6,500 miles.

In reporting to the House Armed Services Committee, headed by Representative Carl Vinson (D., Ga.), the Navy stressed the remarkable accuracy of giant Russian missiles and the speedy recovery of their heavy nose cones.

Navy authorities were obviously much impressed by both.

They also anticipate further Soviet missile tests in the Pacific. One reason for this view is the fact that two of the three Russian ships that participated in these tests are still in the target area. The other presumably returned with the recovered nose cone.

Intelligence has advised the House Committee that these Pacific tests are probably the forerunner of a Soviet attempt to orbit an earth-girdling satellite with a "mechanical eye."

Purpose of this equipment would be to take "pictures" of the U. S. and other strategic areas and transmit them to Russian stations.

One Intelligence report even speculates that such photographic devices were in the nose cones of the tested missiles. According to this acount, that is hinted at in a Soviet scientific journal the Library of Congress has translated for the military services and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Red Whip-Cracking — Moscow is directly attempting to tamper with witnesses slated to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

These witnesses are Americans who attended the Communist-sponsored Youth Festival in Vienna last year. The committee is probing into the background and ring-leaders of this affair.

In one instance last week, a New York witness was telephoned from Moscow by a so-called "editor" of Pravda, official newspaper of the Communist Paper. This trans-Atlantic conversation started cut as an interview, but in a few minutes the alleged "editor" was baldly telling the young American what he should say and do before the Un-American Activities Committee.

When he angrily objected, the Russian vigorously reproved him and hung up.

Another case of attempted witness tampering occurred in Washington.

Moscow sought to telephone several Youth Festival witnesses staying in a Capital hotel. They were out, so the Soviet telephone operator insisted on speaking to the hotel manager. He explained he didn't know where the two men were, whereupon the Moscow operator demanded he drop everything and locate them.

This so outraged the hotel manager that he hung up and immediately reported the matter to the FBI and the Un-American Activities Committee.

On the basis of information so far obtained, the Committee is convinced that the Vienna Youth Festival was used to launch a new international youth movement through which the Reds hope to "recruit" students and others under 25.

The Pennsylvania Story

Forthright Governor

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Inadvertently perhaps Governor Lawrence the other day struck one of the curious keynotes of his Administration— a keynote destined to have more of a familiar ring in the remaining three years of his tenure.

The incident occurred at his last press conference. Out of a clear blue sky he was asked by a reporter, more as a point of idle curiosity than anything else, as to whether he would reappoint Dr. Charles H. Boehm as Superintendent of Public Instruction when his term expires some three months hence—May 21, to be exact.

Without batting a gubernatorial eyelid the answer came back simply and flatly: "Yes."

The incident indeed serves to point up one of the peculiar traits of Governor Lawrence—the man rather than the Governor, that is.

It is a trait veteran newsmen around Capitol Hill have found somewhat difficult—and at the same time amusing—to become accustomed. This is why:

Ordinarily in the past, governors when asked about such items involving appointment of Cabinet or key officers of an administration invariably have tried to sluff over the subject, answering the query with a nebulous reply such as: "nothing definite yet—it is still under study."

Then later as a deadline approaches when action must be taken one way or the other—out would come a formal announcement of the appointment. In other words, hold off on a public commitment until the last moment!

Point blank answers, as in the case of the Boehm incident, on the part of Mr. Lawrence have served to point up a forthrightness on the part of Pennsylvania's present chief executive that is as indicative as it is refreshing.

The post of Superintendent of Public Instruction is one of the top-flight posts on the Cabinet horizon. Heading up Pennsylvania's public school program is anything but a snap in these educationally controversial days.

Pennsylvania's school budget takes the biggest single chunk out of the overall near $2 billion State General Fund Budget—more than half of the General Fund taxpaying dollar.

On top of this, Educator Boehm has been somewhat of a controversial figure in educational circles—his frank and outspoken ideas on what should comprise Pennsylvania's education program of the future of times at odds with others in the field and the school lobbies in particular.

The post held by Doctor Boehm today unquestionably is one of the toughest on Capitol Hill.

The point is—there was every reason, based on past gubernatorial performances, for Mr. Lawrence to hold back on any commitment regarding the state superintendency. More than three months remained before a decision had to be made.

There is another aspect to the "Boehm Incident" worth noting. The former Bucks County schoolman was named to his state post in 1956 by then Democratic Governor Leader. New chief executives oftimes like to make changes, especially in Cabinet rank officers.

Mr. Lawrence when he assumed office last year made very few top echelon personnel changes—prefering to keep a "comfortable status quo" atmosphere within the official realm. It points up an aversion to unnecessary "upheavals" administratively, and almost a fetish for "stabilized" continuity.

The early decision to rename Dr. Boehm — who notwithstanding some differences generally is held in high professional regard — illustrates one of the keynotes of the present Lawrence Administration.

Political Talk

By Congressional Quarterly

Politics and political campaigns have introduced many new words and phrases into our language. How many of the following do you recognize? Try for five correct answers.

(1). Q.—When a legislature "gerrymanders" it is (a) procrastinating on legislation; (b) establishing committees and choosing chairmen; (c) creating distorted representative districts.

A.—(c). The term, a combination of Gerry and salamander, originated in Massachusetts in 1812 when the legislature, under Gov. Elbridge Gerry, arranged the senatorial districts to aid the Democratic-Republican candidates against the Federalists. One of the districts appeared to have the shape of a salamander.

(2). Q.—What was "waving the bloody shirt?"

A.—Northern Republicans who campaigned immediately after the Civil War on the platform of having saved the Union were "waving the bloody shirt." One of the strongest forms of this was an appeal to Union veterans to "vote as you shot."

(3). Q.—"Back to Normalcy" was the slogan in the campaign of (a) 1920; (b) 1936; (c) 1952?

A—(a). Warren G. Harding called for "normalcy" when he accepted the Republican nomination for President.

(4). Q.—Who is supposed to have said, "We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect?"

A.—This saying was attributed to Harry L. Hopkins, right-hand-man to President Roosevelt and was used by opponents of the New Deal to describe the economic and political policies of the Democrats. There is some doubt whether Hopkins actually made the statement.

(5). Q.—When a candidate "stumps" the nation, is he (a) making speeches; (b) polling voters; (c) lining up convention votes?

A.—(a). The term originated in early American political campaigns when frontier candidates used tree stumps as rostrums for their speeches.

(6). Q.—"Rugged individualism" is associated with which one of the following men: (a) William Jennings Bryan; (b) Theodore Roosevelt; (c) Herbert Hoover?

A.—(c). Herbert Hoover introduced the phrase into the campaign of 1928.

(7) Q.—What Presidential candidate said "You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold," in his campaign?

A.—William Jennings Bryan. An advocate of free silver, Bryan made his famous "cross of gold speech" at the Democratic convention of 1896, at which he later won the Presidential nomination.

Firemen On Duty Hour Battling Mattress Fire

A STUBBORN MATTRESS FIRE in East Stroudsburg late Friday night kept that borough's firemen on the job for over an hour.

The blaze, which started at 11:30 p.m. at the apartment of Frank Hineline, 109 Washington St., began when a cigarette burned into the mattress, Fire Chief Clarence Strunk said

The smoke was so dense that firemen had to use masks throughout their job, and complicated extinguishing of the fire.

Slight water damage resulted in Ehrlich's Market, which is on the first floor under the apartment.

Heavy smoke damage was caused to the apartment by the smoldering mattress.

Strunk said 34 firemen were on the job

GOP Claims Soviet Knew

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton said last night Soviet leaders knew the strength of the United States better than some Democrats — and that this was fortunate for world peace.

The Kentucky senator said in a speech for a Lincoln Day dinner that these Democrats, unnamed, were waging a politically motivated effort to depict the United States as a second-rate power.

"To hear them tell it, Russia has either overtaken us or is threatening to outstrip us in virtually every field of human endeavor," Morton said.

Television Brings Olympics Close To Home

THE 1960 OLYMPICS will be close to millions of Americans not only because the games are being held in California but also because portions of each day's competition will be carried on coast-to-coast television.

If all goes according to predictions the United States should dominate the figure skating and women's alpine skiing; Russia the cross-country events and the Northern European countries splitting the remaining events. Canada gets the nod in hockey.

There are three types of skiink competition in the Olympics-Alpine, Nordic and modern winter Biathlon, a newcomer to the games.

Alpine events consist of the downhill, slalom and giant slalom races. Nordic includes the cross-country and jumping competitions while Biathlon is a combination of cross-country skiing and shooting.

Slalom Events, A Cha-Cha On Skiis

In the slalom events the competitors weave through a series of gates made up of pairs of poles. Men's events have from 65 to 75 gates and the ladies' courses have from 40 to 55 gates. Racers must make two runs over the separate courses. The winner is determined on the fast time for all runs.

Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt., and Penny Pitou, N. H., are favored to win the women's slalom and giant slalom.

In the jumping events there are two hills, an 80-meter (262 feet) and a 60-meter (196 feet) course.

Jumpers are judged by five observers on form and distance, with 60 points the maximum for each of the two catagories.

Biathlon Close To Spectators

Russia, according to Olympic observers, will win the first three places in the Biathlon, the only event that prohibits spectators.

Each contestant carries 20 rounds of ammunition and takes five shots at each of four different ranges while skiing around a cross-country range. The distance is 12.4 miles.

The ice hockey championship will probably go right down to the wire. Canada has won six of eight Winter Olympiad hockey titles with the U. S. second four times. Canada is the choice in the event, followed by Russia and the United States.

U. S. Has Good Record In Figure Skating

The United States has made the most Olympic noise in the figure skating events, popularized by Sonja Henie, who appeared in the 1924 games representing Norway as an 11year-old.

Sonja won the ladies' title in 1928, 1932 and 1936.

America's Dick Button won the men's crown twice, while Alan Jenkins and Tenley Albright won in 1956. Carol Heiss, the odds on favorite this year, was second in 1956.

In the speed skating event, the sport is conducted differently than the U. S. Speed skating competitions, where the events are run like a track meet.

Skaters Race Against Clock Only

In the Olympics, participants race in pairs on a divided track. The winner is decided on a best time basis. It often happens that the first finisher in one race might be beaten by the second finisher in another race, because the runner-up skated the distance in a faster clocking.

Russia, with several world record holders entered, should capture most of the men's speed events. The top U. S. hope is Bill Disney, a paper-hanger from Alhambra, Cal.

Wolslayer Wins Two

ESSC Mermen Defeat LIU

EAST STROUDSBURG State College's swimming team won only five first places but edged Long Island University, 52-43, Saturday in the New Yorker's water.

The Warriors won the meet by picking up 23 points in second and third honors, while the losers managed only 13 also-ran points.

Dick Wolslayer earned a double win, taking the 50-yard freestyle in an even 25 seconds and added the 100-yard freestyle in 56.8.

Jacobi Wins

Freshman John Jacobi won his fourth diving event in a row with 44.6 points. Only one judge scored the low board divers.

The only other local wins came in the medlay and 400-yard freestyle relays.

East Stroudsburg held a two point lead going into the last event, the 400-yard freestyle.

But Dick Wolslayer, co-holder of the Eastburg 50-yard freestyle record, gave Frank Grimm's swimmers a 20-yard lead at the end of his performance and the Warriors were home.

Double Win

Mike Munch, a Pan American games performer last summer, grabbed two wins for LIU. He was first in the 200-yard breaststroke and 200-yard backkstroke and second in the diving.

Munch won his 200-yard breaststroke crown in the Pan American meet. The win is the fourth straight for East Stroudsburg, loser only to unbeaten LaSalle.

The locals entertain West Chester Wednesday at 3 p.m.

Hopewell Ups Average To 22.4 A Game

RUSS HOPEWELL'S 69 points in two outings last week has boosted the East Stroudsburg State College sophomore's average to 22.4 points a game.

Hopewell hit 26 markers against Kutztown in a losing cause and came within two points of tying the school's single game record with 43 points against Trenton.

Hopewell's 22 plus mark should rank him about 25 nationally among small college players in NAIA statistics, which are released at the end of the week. He was not mentioned in the last accounting.

Leads in Fouls

Hopewell, who leads the Warriors in total points with 291, is also first in rebounding with a 12.0 average and in personal fouls with 38 in East Stroudsburg's 13 games.

Tony Salerno is the number two man in scoring with a 12.2 mark, followed by Joe Habakus' 8.8 slate.

Habakus is the field goal percentage leader with a 56 per cent average. Hopewell is second with 53 per cent.

Al Stockholm leads the team in free throw percentage, with 84.6, followed by Salerno's 76.6 record.

East Stroudsburg has lost nine games but in points-per-game-average is in front of its opponents 76.2 to 75.7. In seven of the nine loses, the Warriors have outscored the winners from the floor.

Dick Luce's club has two games this week. The locals play at Shippensburg Wednesday and are home against Mansfield on Saturday night.

Shippensburg, which features a zone-press, overcame an 11-point halftime deficit to beat the Warriors 65-64 earlier in the campaign.

Johnson Wins Daytona '500' But Wrecks Take Spotlight

By Whitney Martin
Associated Press Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In a race marked by spins, flips and flames, but only one serious accident, Junior Johnson of Ronda, N. C., won the Daytona "500" for late model stock cars Sunday climaxing the Daytona International Speedway race week.

Johnson won by 23 seconds over Bobby Johns of Miami, Fla., with Richard Peety of Randleman, N. C., third, and his father, Lee, fourth. Lee Petty won the 1959 500.

The winner's average was a comparatively slow 124.740 miles per hour due to the frequent and prolonged caution flags which slowed the field to a lethargic crawl.

Hebert Crashes

The most serious accident occurred on the 126th lap when Tommy Hebert of Miami lost control of his 1960 Thunderbird coming out of the first backstretch turn. His car ripped up 50 feet of railing, then rolled itself into a black snowball as it tumbled into the infield. The engine shooting out 50 feet ahead was a mass of twisted metal.

Hebert was taken to a hospital for surgery on a fractured wrist and injured eye.

In one of the more spectacular mishaps of the mishappocked afternoon a GI from Germany, George Green, who flew here for the race, escaped injury when the ga tank of his car split as he passed in front of the grandstand.

Trailing a sheet of flame, he went into the infield and leaped out as the car was reduced to charred metal.

Red Scribes Protest Ban

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary's Union of Journalists Saturday night cabled the U.S. State Department protesting its refusal to grant entry visas for East German sports writers to cover the Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley.

"These discriminatory measures are contrary to the olympic spirit and are an insult to the idea of freedom of information," the cable said.

Races Scratched At Lake Naomi

Poor visibility and zero degree weather caused a cancellation of Sunday's ice races at Lake Naomi.

More than 40 cars were on hand when the events were called off after several cars cracked-up in practice runs.

The races have been rescheduled for next Sunday. A second day of racing will be held on Monday, Washington's Birthday.

Unbeatens Dropped

Bad Weekend Over For High Cagers

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP)—It was a bad weekend for title contenders and unbeaten teams in Pennsylvania's 1960 high school basketball competition.

Springfield Twp. (Montgomery victories snapped at 23 by Ambler in a Bux-Mont League game, 56-53. It was the Spartans' first loss in 17 games this season. Ambler is defending Bux-Mont champ. Despite the loss, Springfield remained two games in front of the runners-up in the Bux-Mont.

Lewistown Bumped

Lewistown, first half Mountain League champ, suffered its first loss in 15 games when Tyrone pulled off a 59-49 upset. The loss dropped Lewistown among the runners-up in the second half race.

Friday night's results also were a disappointment for these contenders:

Erie Tech dropped its first Section I District 10 contest, losing to defending District Class A champ Erie Strong Vincent, 75-54.

Franklin faded out of the District 10-Section II race by losing to league-leading Meadville, 69-51. The victory clinched at least a tie for the title for the Bulldogs.

Lancaster, regarded as a big second-half threat in the Central Penn Conference, lost to Reading, 49-42, leaving Reading and first half champ York tied for the lead.

Lansdale, first half Black Diamond League titlist, lost to Jim Thorpe 71-68.

Challenge Upset

Punxsutawney, the only challenger to DuBois for the District 9 Class A title, was upset by Bradford, 51-48. DuBois, meanwhile, lost again to Altoona, favorite for the District 6 Class A title, 65-49. The Beavers' only two losses this season have been to Altoona.

State College, after winning the Central State first half title, lost its second game of the second half campaign, 76-58, to Renovo.

Kittanning, leader in the WPIAL Section I, lost its first league game 58-54, to Har-Brack.

On the brighter side:

Uniontown, Nanticoke and Catasauqua continued unbeaten, raising their season's records to 20, 20 and 21 victories, respectively.

Columbia, big threat to defending state Class B champion Kutztown in its own District 3, clinched the Lancaster County Section I title for the fifth straight year.

Wins Title

Jenkintown, which will be one of the principal contenders for state Class C honors, wrapped up the Inter-County League title in District 1.

Sharon Hill, a Class B hopeful, clinched the Suburban IV and Ridley Twp., a Class A team, the Suburban II titles in District 1 leagues.

Chambersburg dumped Hanover from the South Penn unbeaten ranks to take sole possession of first place in that league's second half. Chambersburg also won the first half title.

Farrell, defending state Class A champion, assured itself of at least a tie for the WPIAL Section III title.

Crowe Takes Three From Major Club

CROWE Insurance won three games from Major Vending of Bethlehem, the high average team in the Delaware Valley Bowling League.

Crowe's Jake Nittel had the high single for the event, 238, but J. Pavfnko had the high match, 658.

The locals missed a sweep by four pins, losing the final game 991 to 988.

Rocky Returns To Boxing

(AP) — Rocky Marciano, who admits he can't stay away from boxing, said Sunday he is going to be identified with the game again — as a boxing commissioner.

The undefeated ex-heavyweight champion said he has accepted chairmanship of the re-activated Fort Lauderdale Boxing Commission.

Marciano has knocked down numerous rumors that he'll return to the ring as a fighter.

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE!

Compare this list of Chevy advances with the features ordinary trucks are still talking about. You'll see why Chevy trucks get more work done in a day... why they go extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. These Sturdi-Bilt Sixties aren't just new, they're a full scale revolution!

TORSION-SPRING RIDE

Each front wheel, suspended independently of the other, is free to step individually over bumps. And shockproof torsion springs up front soak up the jars and jolts before they reach the body. With three rugged new tailored-to-the-truck rear suspensions to further reduce road shocks, Chevy gives you the smoothest truck ride you've ever felt.

NO SHIMMY, NO WHEEL FIGHT

Drive a '60 Chevy. Just once. Right away you'll notice the absence of I-beam shimmy and wheel fight common on ordinary trucks.

With independent front suspension there's a brand-new, smoother, easier handling feel behind the wheel.

CABS FOR BIG GUYS

Big guys get a bigger break in a Chevy cab. There's plenty of space inside to stretch out and relax; more room for hats and hips, more room for wide shoulders and long legs. There's horizon-wide visibility through a windshield with 26% more glass area; a new see-at-a-glance instrument panel. Cabs are safer, too, up to 67% more rigid.

6'S SWORN TO SAVE

Chevy's 6-cylinder engines are set to squeeze extra miles out of every drop of fuel. They're long famous for low fuel consumption, high performance.

SHORT STROKE V8'S

Power-packed for peak performance, Chevy's husky V8's make child's play out of the toughest hauls. They have a mind tuned to economy, too, that keeps costs down, profits up.

SLICK NEW SUBURBAN CARRYALLS

These handsome new handy haulers "double in brass"—can transport eight passengers or up to 950 lbs. of payload. Rear and center seats are easy to remove and replace when necessary. For work or for pleasure, these double-duty beauties are best for both!

NEW DOLLAR-SAVING PRICES

Chevrolet's low prices make big truck news for '60. They mean money in your pocket on model after model. Step-Vans, 4-Wheel Drives, many light-duty models with automatic transmissions—all are lower priced. Also, prices have been reduced on all optional V8's.

SEE YOUR DEALER

It could be the most important visit you make in '60. When you've seen these new Chevies, you'll agree they're the world's most advanced trucks. Then drive one and find out why.

Snyder Placed In Charge Of Soil Service Work Unit

IVAN McKeener of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Harrisburg, announced that Jonas L. Snyder, formerly of Kresgeville, has been placed in charge of the recently established Smethport Work Unit.

Before locating in McKean County, Snyder was in the work unit serving Clarion County. Prior to these two years he was engaged in similiar soil and water conservation work in Tioga County.

In Air Force

Snyder has served as a radar and intelligence officer in the Air Force. When called to military duty he was engaged in forest research and engineering for the U.S. Forest Service in Oregon.

He earned his B. S. degree in Forestry at the Pennsylvania State University. At the university "Jay", as he is often called, was active in agricultural and religious programs.

Until graduation from Polk Township High School, Jay was a member of the Future Farmers of America. Various offices were held in this organization and numerous awards were won, including a national Gold Medal.

A native of Monroe County, his parents live in the West End.

Briton Seeks Cannibals Who Ate His Great Uncle

LONDON (AP) — A Briton who supposedly lost a member of his family in a South Seas cooking pot is seeking out the trail of the cannibals of their descendents.

But Scotland Yard, which is against cannibalism, might regard some new evidence as being rather old — 110 years old, in fact.

A search for cannibals is being undertaken by Alan Lennox-Boyd, former British colonial secretary, who is on the way to South Pacific islands. He will talk to any ex-cannibals he meets, and to sons and grandsons of cannibals, to see if anyone can throw any light on the fate of his great uncle, Benjamin Boyd, wealthy adventurer.

Stories Sifted

For more than a century the Lennox-Boyd family has been distressed by seamen's tales that he was eaten in the Solomon Islands. Lennox-Boyd will try to separate fact from legend.

Today there is new evidence that Britons probably were served for dinner in those parts in the 1850s. In a letter to The Scotsman of Edinburgh, Miss Shirley M. Young of the city said that her great-uncle was rescued at the 11th hour.

"I wonder if Mr. Lennox-Boyd's unlucky relative was in the company of my own great-uncle who missed the same fate at just about that time," Miss Young wrote.

"He, Alex Young, and a few other survivors of a shipwreck, thrown up on an island, were put in wicker cages and fed on rice. One was taken away at intervals and presumably eaten.

"Natives on a neighboring island told their missionaries that there were some white men there, and news to a British gunboat, not far away, brought rescue in time.

Nixon-Scott Slate Backed At Meeting

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Republicans intend to seek the party's vice presidential nomination for U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott (R-P) at the July GOP national convention in Chicago.

The 113-member Republican State Committee endorsed Scott, a former GOP national chairman from Philadelphia, as Vice President Richard M. Nixon's running mate in a resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting Saturday.

Later, Scott said he believed "it (the resolution) won't be taken too seriously." He said he would accept the nomination if it were offered to him.

The surprise endorsement was viewed in political circles as being more than a complimentary gesture of promoting a favorite son candidacy.

Would Deliver State

A GOP spokesman, who declined identification, said a Nixon-Scott ticket would be the best possible device to insure that Pennsylvania stays in the Republican column in the presidential balloting.

Pennsylvania Democrats, headed by Gov. David L. Lawrence, have voiced confidence they can carry the state for their national ticket. The Democrats over the years have reduced a once predominant Republican statewide registration lead, primarily due to their control of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Scott served in the House before beating out former Democratic Gov. George M. Leader for the Senate in 1958. The move to have him drafted as the vice presidential nominee was started by Fred E. Zeigler, a Buck County member of the state executive committee.

The Scott endorsement and selection of delegates and alternates to the nominating convention highlighted the meeting.

Place For Young Blood

Aud. Gen. Charles C. Smith claimed the way in which the delegates were slated demonstrated that the state GOP has a place for young men and women in its leadership.

Smith and State Treasurer Robert F. Kent withdrew after they were chosen among 10 delegates-at-large to the convention. Both are seeking to exchange offices in this year's statewide election since the constitution prohibits them from successive terms. The committee unanimously endorsed their candidacies and that of Judge Blair F. Gunther, Pittsburgh, for re-election to the State Superior Court.

Smith said he and Kent withdrew as convention delegates on the condition that the committee replace them with representatives of the State Council of Republican Women and Young Republicans of Pennsylvania.

Chosen in their place were Mrs. Marion O. Day, Mifflinburg, president of the State Council and Thomas H. McIntosh, chairman of the Young Repub[illegible]

Berger Named

Sen. James S. Berger, Coudersport, Senate GOP floor leader; Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Smethport, House GOP floor leader; William W. Ward, Altoona, and Phillip Corson, Montgomery County, dropped off the alternate list to make way for Ed Boyle, publisher of the Oil City Derrick; Mrs. Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, publisher of the Pittsburgh Courier, a Negro weekly; Joseph Machulsky, Shenandoah, chairman of the party's labor committee in 1956 and 1958 and Charles Weissman, Wilkes-Barre, Jewish community leader.

Pennsylvania will send 70 delegates, including the 10 at-large, each with a full vote, to the GOP convention.

The chairman of the delegation will be chosen May 21 when the new state committee and the 60 delegates chosen in April 26th primary meet for the first time.

Chosen by the state committee

Delegates At Large

as at-large delegates, besides Mrs. Day and McIntosh, were state Chairman George I. Bloom; Scott; national committeeman Jay Cook Montgomery County; national committeewoman Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon, Butler; State Vice Chairman Mrs. Ruth Glenn Pennell, Mifflintown; Joseph N. Pew Jr., Philadelphia, chairman of the board of the Sun Oil Co.; Thomas B. McCabe Sr., Chester, president of the Scott Paper Co., and State Senator M. Harvey Taylor, Harrisburg.

The other alternates were Buckley Byers, Pittsburgh; Harry P. Davis Sr., Philadelphia, legislative lobbyist for the Sun Oil firm; G. Graybill Diehm, Lancaster; U.S. Rep. Ivor D. Fenton, Mahanoy City; Mrs. Spencer G. Nauman, Harrisburg; Col. Willard F. Rockwell, Pittsburgh, state finance committee chairman.

Frank V. Birch

Lions Club To Celebrate Charter Night Tomorrow

CHARTER NIGHT for the Stroudsburg Lions Club will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and the main speaker will be a former international president of the organization.

Frank V. Birch, of Milwaukee served as head of the international group from 1937 to 1938.

Beginning as a member of the Milwaukee club in 1924, he assumed the top post in the Lions 13 years later.

Organized In 1925

The local club received its charter in 1925, just 35 years ago, and one member from the original group will be on hand.

Lowell "Red" Cross, advertising director of The Daily Record will receive a 35-year Charter Pin from the local organization.

One other original member will not be able to be present. Walter von Broock, Sparta, N. J., will be absent due to illness.

Neither of the two men are active in the club, but are honorary members.

Red Writers Banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department refused Friday to reconsider its move barring East German sports writers from entering the U. S. to cover the Olympic Games at California's Squaw Valley.

Proponents Of Civil Rights Start Sniping At Each Other

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sniping within the ranks of civil rights advocates broke out Sunday on the eve of the start of an election-year Senate battle over the issue.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) criticized Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo) for not calling the Rules Committee together last week to act on a voting rights bill.

Hennings, the committee chairman, worked, meanwhile, on a new measure that he pictured as superior to the proposals of either the Eisenhower administration or the Civil Rights Commission.

Unable To Unite

These developments pointed up the inability so far of civil rights proponents to unite behind a bill to prevent any racial discrimination in voting.

The Civil Rights Commission has recommended the use of federal registrars appointed by the President; Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers called that idea unworkable and proposed instead a system of court-appointed referees.

The Rules Committee completed hearings on the subject Feb. 5, but Hennings said at the time the committee action before the Senate takes up the issue Monday in accordance with a time schedule pledged by Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex).

Could Have Met

Keating contended in a television program taped for New York stations that the Rules Committee, of which he is a member, could have met any time last week to report out a bill.

Southern senators opposed to civil rights measures already have stressed that the Senate is going to be called on to act without any committee-approved bill before it.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), leader of the Dixie forces, said they will use every means at their command "to compel orderly procedure."

The administration's seven-point program has been introduced by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) and 22 other Republican senators. Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, plans to offer it as an amendment to "whatever bill is called up."

In addition to the proposal for court-appointed voting referees, it provides for other steps to protect Negro voting rights and to reinforce the U.S. Supreme Court's 1954 decision declaring racially segregated schools unconstitutional.

Chess Clubs Organized At School

NEWFOUNDLAND—The intricacies of "the royal game of chess" are being studied by members of two new clubs organized at Southern Wayne Joint School.

The Chess Clubs, one for girls directed by Edward S. Parsons, Jr., and the other for boys under the advisorship of Adolph Caprioli, were organized for the purpose of stimulating the power of thinking and achieving excellence in the game.

It has been noted that in Russia, where chess is as popular as baseball in the United States, children play chess almost before they learn to speak, in spite of the belief that chess is "too deep" for the average person.

Any student registered at SWJS in grades seven through twelve, who is not a member of Future Farmers of America or Future Homemakers of America, may qualify for membership in the chess club. Associate memberships may be arranged.

Students Rated

Ratings are given for each student's adeptness at chess, and for each student's scholastic average. For example, a student in D section scholastically, capable of competing with the second best group of chess players, achieves a rating of D-2.

The number of periods to be used for playing chess depends upon the scholastic rating of the student. D-1, -2, -3 and -4 students play only on general club meeting days once a month. C students have one additional period; B students, three additional periods; and A students in any spare time when competition may be arranged.

Three committees will be named for scheduling regular games, tournaments, and arranging contests with other than SWJS students (other schools, townspeople, etc.)

Members Listed

Members of the girls' chess club include Beverly Matthews, president; Judy Wreski, vice-president; Mary Dugan, secretary; Lucille Marro, treasurer; Anna May Randal, student council representative; Susan Akers, Kathleen Croft, Alice Evans, Hazel Haas, Donna Henwood, Bonnie Price, Jane Conley, Phyllis Olsommer, Roberta Olsommer and Marion Randall.

Junior High Band, Chorus Plans Festival Of Music

ON THURSDAY AT 8 P. M., the band and chorus of the East Stroudsburg Junior High School will combine for a program of music at the school.

The band of 85 members is under the direction of Robert Zellner and will feature marches, overtures, several soloists and some chorales.

They will also present several novelty numbers.

The chorus under the direction of Kenneth Raessler will present a varied program to show the versatility of their 150 voices. They have some comedy numbers and a dance routine.

Seafarer's Statement

BOSTON (AP)—Dutch seafarer William Van Rie, the state claimed Friday, posed as a bachelor to lure pretty Lynn Kauffman to a shipboard love affair that ended in her death.

"I said a lot to her, but I told her nothing," the handsome ship's radio operator was quoted as saying of his alleged illicit relationship with the vivacious 23-year-old American divorcee.

The state also suggested cryptically that Lynn was not the only object of the 31-year-old Van Rie's attention during their long voyage together last summer from the Orient.

As to Miss Kauffman's death, Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe told an all-male jury trying Van Rie for his life on first-degree murder charges: "This defendant beat this girl into helplessness and then he dumped her over the rail."

Mrs. George Hauser has returned home after visiting her sisters, Mrs. Wm. Scott and Mrs. Florence Russell in Philadelphia and Wilmington. In the near future, Mrs. Hauser expects to go to Virginia to be with her daughter, Lt. Commander Sylvia Hauser.

The deacons of the Presbyterian Church met at the manse to organize. Miss Barbara Drake was elected secretary and Mrs. Elan Gray, treasurer. Ernest Wyckoff of Stroudsburg spoke to the group explaining the Neighborhood Fellowship plan as it works in the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Robert Brueckner, D.D., architect for Castle Inn and Music Hall, and for years in mission work in Africa, writes friends that he returned from Johannesburg Hospital in December after surgery for removal of a kidney. Friends who wish to send a card to Brueckner, whose birthday is Mar. 4, can be addressed 16 Durris Road, Forrest Town, Johannesburg, South Africa.

Edith Voorhees Stearns writes to friends from Brussels, Belgium, that coal there sells for over $45 a ton. Dr. and Mrs. Miner Stearns are engaged in radio missionary work in Belgium.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Savage are residing in the former Green Lantern Restaurant building. They came from Hawley in December. In Hawley they conducted a diner. Mr. Savage works at his hobby of making tables and chairs. Their son and two daughters are married and living in New Jersey.

Flowers and bulletins were presented in Salem United Church of Christ by Mr. and Mrs. William Burger in memory of their son Franklin A. Burger.

Joy Ann Kleintop, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Kleintop, was baptized by Rev. Mark Michael in Salem U.C.C.

"Africa the Land of Promise" is the theme of a covered dish supper for the entire Salem United Church of Christ family at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 1. Guests will be Rev. and Mrs. Wellesley Devitt, missionaries on furlough from Kenya, Africa. They will show a colored movie which includes closeups of big game, pictures of African tribesmen and the story of their mission work. The meting will be held in the Guild Hall. The public is invited to attend.

Rev. James Laubach, Easton, was a visitor here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Teada celebrated their 33rd wedding anniversary on Feb. 12.

Polaris Subs British-Based

LONDON (AP)—U.S. nuclear submarines carrying polaris missiles with H-bomb warheads are to be based in British ports, the Sunday Graphic said Sunday. An admiralty spokesman declined comment on the report.

Bevan Released

LONDON (AP) — Aneurin Bevan, 62, deputy leader of the British Labor party, was released from the hospital Sunday after recovery from a major abdominal operation seven weeks ago. He was on the critical list for a long time. The nature of his ailment was never disclosed. Friends said it was not cancer.

Policy

The Daily Record reserves the right to refuse publication, or to edit such advertising, which it feels is not in the best interest of its readers.

Closing Time

Want ads accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the following day and until 12 noon Saturday for Monday edition.

Deadline for Classified Display: 3:00 p.m. 2 days prior to publication.

Important: After an ad is ordered, it cannot be canceled or changed before publication.

However, Want Ads now appearing in the Classified Section, may be cancelled up to 3:00 p.m. Classified Display ads may be cancelled up to 11:00 a.m. for the next day's edition.

You are only charged for the number of days your ad appears in the paper.

Adjustments

Errors, not the fault of the advertiser, which clearly lessens the value of the advertisement, should be corrected the first day, when one extra corrected insertion will be made without charge. The Record assumes no responsibility for error after the first insertion.

Mrs. Robert Lasley Shackleford
(Pilkington Studio)

Miss Lorraine M. Dengler Is Married In Florida

Miss Lorraine Morgan Dengler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. LeRoy Dengler of Hawthorne Inn, Mount Pocono, and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was married on Saturday afternoon at 5:30 in St. Stephens Episcopal Church, Coconut Grove, Fla., to Robert Lasley Shackleford.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Shackleford of Nashville, Tenn., and Pompano Beach, Fla.

The altar was flanked by standards bearing Better Times roses in white and pink with the same flowers on the altar which was decorated with candelbra and greens.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace. Hand-clipped lace embroidered in pearls and aurora crystals scalloped the low neckline. The dress on princess lines was draped in back to a self rose at the waistline and cascaded to a full aisle-wide train. A four-tier veil of pure silk French illusion fell from a matching lace crown embroidered with pearls.

Mrs. David Montgomery of Fort Lauderdale was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Lee Koehler and Mrs. John LeBar, of Stroudsburg; Miss Marion Van Valkenburgh, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Mrs. Dean Bock, New Canaan, Conn.; and Miss Patricia Litts, Coconut Grove, Fla.

The matron of honor wore a ballerina length gown of jewel pink organza, fashioned with a bouffant overskirt over a sheath skirt, a halo of pale pink carnations and small sweetheart roses to match her bouquet of pale pink carnations and pink roses.

The bridesmaids wore similar gowns and carrier pale pink carnations and Better Times roses.

Robert A. Shackleford was best man for his son. Ushers included Reese L. Dengler Jr., brother of the bride of Fort Lauderdale; Joseph C. Douglas, Miami; David Montgomery, Fort Lauderdale, Frank C. Gardner and Gail R. Georgeson, all of Miami, and Allen R. Patterson of Pittsburgh.

A reception was held in the Cloud Room of the DuPont Plaza Hotel in Miami.

After a wedding trip to Montego Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Shackleford will be at home at 2836 Crystal Court, Coconut Grove, Fla.

Welcome Home For Bruce Davies

Tobyhanna — A welcome home party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Larrison of Tobyhanna for Bruce Davies who returned on January 29 from school.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison and family, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Surtsaky, Laurence Leader, and Bruce's mother, Mrs. Burnetta Davies.

Refreshments were served.

Local Couples At Pinehurst For Golfing

Pinehurst, N. C. — Here for a week's stay as guests at The Holly Inn are Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Baldwin of 1438 Glen Brook Rd.; Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Nixon of RD 2; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cramer of 52 S. Green St., E.; Mr. and Mrs. George G. Shafer of 109 N. 7th St.; and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stofflet of 904 Main St.

They are enjoying golf at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Just Between Us — —

—by Bobby Westbrook

A snowstorm at home is a nuisance in many ways, but this wasn't so much of a muchness here. As a matter of fact, guests visiting at the home of Jesse and Edna Pierson on Saturday night came hoping to be snowbound in such salubrious company but found themselves with no excuse for not going home with the snow so cold it wasn't even slippery.

However when snow follows you all the way to North Carolina it must be provoking, and I doubt if our five golfing couples got in much golf at Pinehurst this weekend. More likely bridge wrapped in blankets. Bet they had fun, anyway.

Fortunately the storm didn't stretch as far south as Florida to nip the pink and white roses in Lorraine Dengler's wedding. Now there is a wedding I wouldn't have minded covering in person. I'll bet it was like old home week in Coconut Grove, Fla. with all the Poconians rallying around.

However, judging by the looks of the calendar for this week, I'll have precious little time to spend wishing I were somewhere else. I'll need all my speed just to get from one telephone to the other.

And with February half over, it's only five more weeks until Spring.

Miss Lois Ann Buzzard Is Bride Of Harvey F. Lyon

Miss Lois Ann Buzzard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Buzzard of Stroudsburg RD 2, Snydersville, became the bride of Harvey Frankin Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Lyon of East Stroudsburg RD 1, Minisink Hills, at 7:30 p.m. on Friday before the miniature candle-lit altar of Grace Lutheran parsonage, East Stroudsburg. The double-ring nuptial rite was solemnized by Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church minister, in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was attired in a dusty-blue nylon street length dress with white accessories and wore a white carnation corsage.

Miss Rosemary Schuler, maid-of-honor, was attired in a rose nylon street length dress with black accessories and wore a yellow carnation corsage. Miss Ann Lyon, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wore a white wool street length dress with pink and black accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Larry Buzzard, brother of the bride, was best-man.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk figured street length dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bride's mother was attired in a blue wool street length dress with black accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The bride was graduated from Stroudsburg High School with the class of 1958 and is employed at Besecker's Snydersville Diner.

The bridegroom will be graduated from East Stroudsburg High School this coming June. He is serving in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, 3rd Motor Transport Btn in Wyoming and is employed by the Rim Rock Studios.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Minisink Hills with many friends and relatives enjoying the festivities. The newlyweds will be at home to their friends in a newly furnished apartment in Snydersville.

Fire Co. Aux. Aids Family Hit By Fire

Portland — The Ladies Aux. of the Portland Fire Co. at their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Edgar Dalberg voted $25 to the Ziegafuse family who lost their home in a fire in November.

Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held March 14 at 6:30 at Otto's Grandview Inn.

Plans for the benefit parties were canceled. The auxiliary will be in charge of the kitchen at the indoor carnival planned by the firemen for April.

Members present were Mrs. Elwood Baker, Mrs. Carl Beck, Mrs. Ethel Kithcart, Mrs. Anthony Manzi, Mrs. Thelma Muschock, Mrs. Bernard Oliver, Mrs. Edward Oyer, Mrs. Tim Owens, Mrs. Joseph Ponett, Mrs. Barnard Potter, Mrs. M. Rushmeier, Mrs. Frank Shoemaker, Mrs. Harold Trayes, Mrs. Deanna Anthony and Mrs. Elizabeth Webb.

Grace Guild Meets Tuesday

The Women's Guild of Grace Lutheran Church will meet Tuesday night at 8 with Rev. William Wunder as guest speaker. A white elephant sale will be featured during the social hour.

The women of the guild will also meet on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to make cancer dressings.

Plan Rummage Sale

The Young People's Bible Class of the Grace Lutheran Church will have a rummage sale in the Grand Theater building on Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Articles for the sale should be brought to the storeroom Wednesday night between 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Garden Club To Be Host To 3 Clubs

Portland—Fred Gardner, who was discharged from the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, on his birthday last week was the guest of honor at a family party when he returned home.

Guests included Mrs. Arthur Cornwall and children, Terry Lynn and Brian Lee, of Blairstown, N. J., Mrs. Lewis B. Ribble, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ribble and children, J. Lewis, Kay and Patsy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeGroff and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner.

Gardner Feted On Return From Hospital

The Monroe County Garden Club has invited members of the Pocono, Bushkill and Portland Garden Clubs as well as friends and prospective members to join them for their meeting on Thursday at 2:15 at the YMCA.

Colored slides of Bowman's Hill Wild Flower Preserve, of which the local club is a guarantor and sponsor of its Laurel Trail, will be shown. Mrs. Elwood Grant will give the narration. Since she has contributed a number of plants to the Preserve she will explain where the wild flowers can be found here and something of their characteristic.

A new idea of birthday arrangements will be explained.

Members are asked to bring forced branches of shrubs or trees, seasonal arangements, or interesting houseplants.

Mrs. William Michelfelder and Mrs. Ernest Schwartz are hostess chairmen.

Lapianos, Wed In Italy 50 Years Ago, Honored Here

Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Lapiano who were married 50 years ago in Italy were honored yesterday afternoon at a family party celebrating the golden wedding at their home 99 Walnut St., East Stroudsburg.

They have four children, all of whom were born in Italy, and twelve grandchildren.

Their son, Lt. Col. Joseph Lapiano, is now stationed in Texas and was unable to be here for the celebration. However their three daughters were present with their families; Mrs. Thomas Ventre, East SStroudsburg; Mrs. Joseph Emanuel, Easton and Mrs. Zachary Leraris of Bangor.

Junior Women Plan Party At County Home

The Junior Woman's Club, instead of the board meeting regularly scheduled for the third Tuesday night of the month, will hold a Valentine party at the County Home for the guests on Tuesday night.

Members will assemble at the Stroud Community House at 7 p.m. for transportation to the County Home. They will take refreshments for the party.

S. S. Teachers, Friendly Club At St. Paul's

The Teachers of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Craigs Meadows, will hold their February meeting on Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the Sunday School.

Immediately following the teachers meeting, the Friendly Club will meet. Plans will be made for a kitchen shower, and reports of the dinner meeting of the Monroe County Council of Church Women will be given by the delegates.

The Wyckoff Shopper
"the friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff STROUDSBURG, PA.

When you come into Wyckoff's and see a flock of women (probably Wyckoff personnel) lurking around a rack or display case in the manner of hummingbirds hovering around a honeysuckle bush, you'd better investigate. Chances are it will save you money. Not just a dollar or two, but REAL money.

Long ago, I learned this . . . and so, when I saw Freida Manze, Irene Masters, Freida Fabel and few others sorting through the dress racks, I made a beeline in their direction. Happy day! There, almost too good to be true, were some of our very finest, most distinguished labels, marked down to a measly fraction of the original price. They were winter dresses, to be sure . . . but all of them were styles that will be just as good next year as they are today, and they certainly have a lot of "go" left in them this winter, with February only half through and March still to go.

My own wardrobe being a sorry conglomeration of everything the moths left behind from their feast of the last several years, I decided to make a selection. Fortunately for me (I really can't understand it) tall as I am I can usually find something that fits me to perfection, without need for one speck of alteration.

Luck was with me. Knowing that various companies cut their clothes differently . . . some with an eye to saving on fabric, others more generously (and believe me, you can't always judge which is which by the price tag) I chose several in sizes 16 to 18. The 16 fit me perfectly . . . but then, so did the 18s. Two had been 17.98 and the other 19.98. All were marked down to 4.99.

Right this minute, as I type, I am wearing one of the dresses I chose a few minutes ago at lunch. It is comfortable . . . well fitted . . . a perfect length, and no one did anything but zip me into it. It is my Valentine gift to me . . . and the more I peek at the discarded sad-sack of the past two winters in the bag on my desk, the more convinced I am I deserve it!

Re-reading that last line, I am aware that I sound rather selfish person. Maybe I am sometimes . . . but to be quite honest, I feel every parent should be. Most men are, I believe. They love their children and wish to provide well for them, but are not inclined to forego a new suit when it is needed, new shoes, or a new car. Too many mothers, in my opinion, are the opposite. They left their teeth, their hair, their own wardrobe and grooming "go to seed" in order that a sixteen year old may have a car to park next to teacher's on the school grounds . . . or that daughter's wardrobe can outdo that of the girl next door.

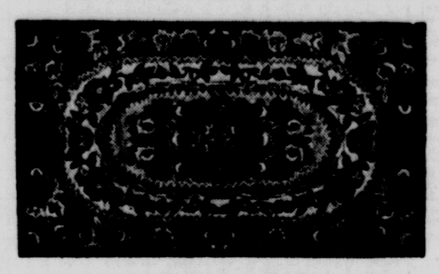

Frankly, I believe this is wrong. In my family, we take turns. If one needs shoes, the other—who merely wants them—must wait. If a wardrobe emergency of vital nature arises, it takes precedence over all else. And I come in for my share too. Why not? I work every day and am out in the world where I am seen. I owe it to my employer, as well as to my family and myself to look as good as I can on our budget. And when things get me down, as they sometimes do, I'm not above feeling a new bonnet or "gift" is in order. After all, I provide these for my children under like conditions, don't I?

In all honesty I believe, parents should be a little selfish. Right this minute, I think every woman should begin thinking about her spring wardrobe, along with those of her husband and their children. Martyrhood and Motherhood are not good mixers—nor should it be expected that they would be.
